Brief Report

Bhoomitrasena Club successfully organized a Digital Poster Making Competition on World Wetland Day to raise awareness about the significance of wetlands and the need for their conservation. The competition aimed to encourage creativity, digital artistry, and environmental consciousness among students.

A total of 11 participants from various departments enthusiastically took part in the competition, showcasing their artistic talent and commitment to environmental protection. Each participant designed a digital poster that effectively conveyed the theme of wetland conservation, highlighting the role of wetlands in sustaining biodiversity, regulating climate, and supporting human livelihoods.

After careful evaluation based on creativity, relevance to the theme, and visual impact, Aleena Lijo (II PG Chemistry) was declared the winner of the competition.
